Anxious in America - B. P.

Meinhardt 2016-02-22

Anxious in America is my story.
It's an account of living with persistent extreme anxiety, known as Generalized Anxiety

Disorder, GAD. There are many shared traits; but GAD is unique for each person. Throughout these writings, I relate my experience with GAD. I grew-up on a cattle ranch on Lake Okeechobee in South Florida. Dad was born into a South Florida Mik-Sem (Miccosukee Seminole) tribal society. My folks worried excessively about family health, mainly dad's angina. Income was next in the hierarchy of issues. My family came of age during the Great Depression, World War II, segregation, and the nuclear threat. As did millions of other families, mine had real worries. Their anxiety was specific, not generalized. Dad's Austrian ancestors were cattle breeders and commodity traders. In 1848 they entered into an 'enterprise marriage' with the Mik-Sem. It was a 100-year agriculture business partnership, sealed by marriage. Great granddad Pal was 18 when he arrived at the German Trade Council in New Orleans. He negotiated the enterprise partnership with the Mik-Sem. Pal wanted an American adventure. Cowboy and Indian stories were popular with young Europeans in the 1800s. Pal was no exception. He kept a diary noting each book he read and developed a fantasy of marrying an American Indian princess. Amazingly, Pal made his fantasy a reality. But he noted his nervous worry at every step. Pal and great grandma Zalla formed an enterprise marriage. Pal's diary notes a marriage more of passion than enterprise. But that's another story. This is the origin of family 'nervous-worry.' Once he arrived in Florida, Pal laboriously wrote his diary in fractured English. He learned English rapidly from Zalla. Pal frequently labeled his nervous Angst as angst. Dad said nervousness didn't run in the family, it galloped. He often said, 'Old Son, people in business have plenty to worry about, especially in the segregated South. But when you grow-up it will change. Segregation will end since it's bad for business. You look like mom. You'll easily pass.' Mom was Irish. Dad met mom when she worked as a department store model. Mom said, 'All it took was a smile. Dad looked like the gypsy prince of my dreams.' Mom said her kin were professional nervous-worriers. 'Dad's kin are amateurs compared us.' As we we're Native American on dad's side, segregation was a real worry. Violence and war, while not immediate threats, were constants in our family, clan, and tribe. Like my folks, I'm a nervous-worrier. Now it's called Generalized Anxiety Disorder, GAD. I still think of it as nervous-worry. Therapists are disturbed when I voice my preference for 'nervous-worry.' So now it's GAD, not nervous-worry. My folks had plenty of issues to worry about. Their worries and mine were neither simple nor generalized. The mental health industry transforms nervous-worry into the multi-billion dollar GAD industry. Millions of people are at least partially disabled by GAD. GAD can be a life-saving diagnosis and not to be taken lightly. There's a broad-spectrum of symptoms, and therapies. I have GAD with schizophrenic and paranoid symptoms. I insist on scrutinizing GAD, not denying it. As a lifelong seeker of hidden knowledge, I've tried to find 'where the feet grow, ' as dad would say. I believe GAD can be both a fault and a feature. It can be both a beneficial challenge as well as a debilitating mental condition. Some forms of GAD sharpen the mind by focusing on specific issues. This may be the case with introverted writers and compulsive researchers like me. I believe researching 'the global family economy, ' since the 1970s has relieved my anxiety. Excessive worry often interferes with daily function, as individuals with GAD may anticipate disaster, and are overly concerned about everyday matters of health, money, death, family, friendship, relationships, and work.

Two Brothers, One Journey -

Angela Conrad 2016-07-29

Angela Conrad's two young sons have both been diagnosed with autism, wrecking any chance she can have a normal family life. Every day Angela has a mountain to climb 24/7, just to get somewhere close to keeping her children safe and happy and keep her house from looking like a war zone. This is her story of how she has battled the effects of a life-changing condition and learned to handle the ignorance of some of her friends, relatives and neighbors. A moving, inspiring read for all those whose lives are touched by autism. "Your child has autism," said the doctor. Who would have thought those few words could be so painful? That little sentence is a kind of death sentence. It's a death sentence for the normal life they were supposed to live. It's a death sentence for your marriage, if you let it. It's a death sentence for your dreams and hopes. It's a death

The Fourth International Congress on Mathematics Education was held in Berkeley, California, USA, August 10-16, 1980. Previous Congresses were held in Lyons in 1969, Exeter in 1972, and Karlsruhe in 1976. Attendance at Berkeley was about 1800 full and 500 associate members from about 90 countries; at least half of these come from outside of North America. There were four plenary addresses; they were delivered by Hans Freudenthal on major problems of mathematics education, Hermina Sinclair on the relationship between the learning of language and of mathematics, Seymour Papert on the computer as carrier of mathematical culture, and Hua Loo-Keng on popularising and applying mathematical methods. George Polya was the honorary president of the Congress; illness prevented his planned attendance but he sent a brief presentation entitled, "Mathematics Improves the Mind". There was a full program of speakers, panelists, debates, miniconferences, and meetings of working and study groups. Please note: This is a companion version & not the original book. Sample Book Insights: #1 I am about to crush a beer can on my forehead. I am Samantha McKiver Irby, age 35ish, but I could pass for forty-seven to fifty-two. I am nominally female. #2 I am a client services director at an animal hospital. I am extremely lazy, but I am good at playing the race card and eating other people's lunches in the break room. I was born in Evanston, Illinois, a suburb along the lake north of Chicago. #3 I was a teenage girl who needed lipstick, and I couldn't wait two years for regular babysitting jobs to start paying enough for me to buy it. So I went to the Osco in downtown Evanston and slipped tubes of Revlon's Toast of New York and Iced Coffee into my coat pocket. I was met at the door by a manager, who was black. I was arrested. #4 I am too lazy to get married, and I don't have the money to go through multiple background checks. I am looking for someone who doesn't irritate me, and who is also minimally annoyed by my irritating habits.

The Power of Love: my victory over breast cancer -

Karla Icaza 2017-02-02

When I was diagnosed with breast cancer, almost immediately, I thought I should write a book about my experience. I began to write a few days after my surgery, when I was at home recovering. It is a book written while I battled the disease. Since I wrote it while things were happening, on its pages I poured my heart. In it are my weaknesses and my strengths; Is a book that provokes many emotions, to cry, to laugh, to reflect. I included photos that illustrate many of the things I talk about. There are testimonies of my husband, my children, and other relatives where they reflect the way they handled the battle. It is a book that conveys the love of God and the love of family and friends who accompanied me throughout my process. A book inspired by the Holy Spirit; I could not have written it without His help. It is my desire that every person who reads it receives hope, peace, love and faith to face any difficult circumstances and experience God's embrace.

Saving Truth From Paradox - Hartry Field 2008-03-06

Saving Truth from Paradox is an ambitious investigation into paradoxes of truth and related issues, with occasional forays into notions such as vagueness, the nature of validity, and the Gödel incompleteness theorems. Hartry Field presents a new approach to the paradoxes and provides a systematic and detailed account of the main competing approaches. Part One examines Tarski's, Kripke's, and Lukasiewicz's theories of truth, and discusses validity and soundness, and vagueness. Part Two considers a wide range of attempts to resolve the paradoxes within classical logic. In Part Three Field turns to non-classical theories of truth that restrict excluded middle. He shows that there are theories of this sort in which the conditionals obey many of the classical laws, and that all the semantic paradoxes (not just the simplest ones) can be handled consistently with the naive theory of truth. In Part Four, these theories are extended to the property-theoretic paradoxes and to various other paradoxes, and some issues about the understanding of the notion of validity are addressed. Extended paradoxes, involving the notion of determinate truth, are treated very thoroughly, and a number of different arguments that the theories lead to "revenge problems" are addressed. Finally, Part Five deals with dialethic approaches to the paradoxes: approaches which, instead of restricting excluded middle, accept certain contradictions but alter classical logic so as to keep them confined to a relatively remote part of the language. Advocates of dialethic theories have argued them to be better than theories that restrict excluded middle, for instance over issues related to the incompleteness theorems and in avoiding revenge problems. Field argues that dialetheists' claims on behalf of their theories are quite unfounded, and indeed that on some of these issues all current versions of dialetheism do substantially worse than the best theories that restrict excluded middle.

Real Materialism - Galen Strawson 2008-05-29

Real Materialism draws together papers written over twenty years by Galen Strawson in philosophy of mind and metaphysics. Strawson focuses on five main areas of enquiry: [1] the nature of the physical, consciousness, the 'mind-body problem', and the prospects for panpsychism; [2] the self, the subject of experience, self-consciousness, and the 'narrative' self; [3] free will and moral responsibility; [4] the nature of thought and intentionality and their connection with consciousness; [5] the problem of causation with particular reference to the philosophy of David Hume.

The Real Doctor Will See You Shortly - Matt McCarthy 2015-04-07

A scorchingly frank look at how doctors are made, bringing readers into the critical care unit to see one burgeoning physician's journey from ineptitude to competence. In medical school, Matt McCarthy dreamed of being a different kind of doctor—the sort of mythical, unflappable physician who could reach unreachable patients. But when a new admission to the critical care unit almost died his first night on call, he found himself scrambling. Visions of mastery quickly gave way to hopes of simply surviving hospital life, where confidence was hard to come by and no amount of medical school training could dispel the terror of facing actual patients. This funny, candid memoir of McCarthy's intern year at a New York hospital provides a scorchingly frank look at how doctors are made, taking readers into patients' rooms and doctors' conferences to witness a physician's journey from ineptitude to competence. McCarthy's one stroke of luck paired him with a brilliant second-year adviser he called "Baio" (owing to his resemblance to the Charles in Charge star), who proved to be a remarkable teacher with a wicked sense of humor. McCarthy would learn even more from the people he cared for, including a man named Benny, who was living in the hospital for months at a time awaiting a heart transplant. But no teacher could help McCarthy when an accident put his own health at risk, and showed him all too painfully the thin line between doctor and patient. The Real Doctor Will See You Shortly offers a window on to hospital life that dispenses with sanctimony and self-seriousness while emphasizing the black-comic paradox of becoming a doctor: How do you learn to save lives in a job where there is no practice?

Worry and Anxiety -

Archibong Emmanuel Etim
2020-10-03

Worry and Anxiety; one of the greatest distorting substances in the world today, distorting the joy and happiness of people living in the world on daily basis with its stingy influences. So great is its influences in the life of the people that like a real monster which put the human to flight at either its presence or at the moment of the mentioning of its name, so also has its existence become in the life of the people. In fact, so great is its worth in the life of the people living in our world today that it seems like it is becoming one of the idolize things to them, that is defining their mood at every moment of the time, like their eating moment and their refraining moment from eating, their moment being happy and going out to caught fun with pals, and their moment of being solitary from all etc. In fact, so great has its influences become in the life of the people in our world today that even some people has really idolize in their life. Yes, this is very true. I once met a pal and also a PhD holder lecturer who once told me that one of the ways by which one can take to obtain success in this life is through the one learning to live a life of worrying and being anxious of life's process on daily basis. In fact, like an unsurmountable and unconquerable real monster to the human so also has this substance of things called worry and anxiety being in our world. For despite the great measure layout by many scholars around the world on how to eradicate its existence in the life of the people, all seems to be to no avail. From our environment to off our environment (the social media world) what we see and hear is of the hurtful effects this monster is creating in the life of the people on daily basis (many people in our world today live in depression, dejection, despondency of life, and some have committed suicide all because of them being worried and anxious of one thing or the other etc.) Howbeit, with an undisputability of its might over the humans because of the harbour its existence has created in their life, this monster of the world ought not to have an influence over the Christians. This is because Jesus Christ their mighty leader has proclaimed himself having preeminence over all things, both of physical and those of the spiritual through his resurrection from the death, and then sitting on a throne raised beyond every existing thrones under the heaven. Also, he has promised and also proclaimed giving this victory of his to all who believe on him (John1:12, Luke 10:19). But it is bizarre that despite this great Promises made by the Lord to his believers we still find that this monster of the world is still having preeminence over the believers as though they do not have a saviour to save them from it, there by making them to be of no differences between the people of the world and they who are called the children of God, for as the former so also is the latter (both control by this great monster who defines their mood of living life on daily basis). And this is making the word of the Lord to seem falsehood to his believers like he is just seeking to get followers from them. Howbeit, from his holy book (the Bible) it is affirmed that every word of his is true and there is no lie attached to it (Proverbs30:5), there by expressing that the proclamation of his to his believers of giving them victory over all things because they do believe on him isn't a falsehood statement to them for him to just get followers from them. The question then rises, why then does this monster of the world also having preeminence over the believers life if the Promises of the Lord to them isn't a falsehood proclamation, and how can it be overcome in their life? This is what this book is all about, to educate the Christians on how and why they should overcome the monster of the world called worry and anxiety in their life as they continue believing in the Lord.

The Real Metaphysical Club

- Frank X. Ryan 2019-05-01

A full account of the Metaphysical Club, featuring the members' philosophical writings and four critical essays. The Metaphysical Club, a gathering of intellectuals in the 1870s, is widely recognized as the crucible where pragmatism, America's distinctively original philosophy, was refined and proclaimed. Louis Menand's bestseller about the group was a dramatic publishing success. However, only three actual members—Oliver Wendell Holmes Jr., Charles S. Peirce, and William James—appear in the book, alongside other thinkers who were never in the Club. The Real Metaphysical Club tells the full story of how this influential group shifted the course of philosophy in America. In addition to pioneering pragmatism, the group explored radical empiricism and idealism, and formulated personalism and process philosophy, equally important developments. This volume contains the important writings dating from 1870 to 1885 by the real members of the Metaphysical Club. The first section centers on pragmatism and science; the second part collects writings of the lawyers; and the third part covers idealist and personalist philosophers. Many of these writings have never been reprinted before, and nothing like this impressive collection has ever been attempted. A general introduction provides a narrative history, and the editors' three introductions to the volume's sections vividly bring to life the intense meetings, sustained debates, and pioneering thought of the Metaphysical Club. "The Real Metaphysical Club includes some very important thinkers that don't always make it into anthologies of American philosophy. The period is also important. 1870 to 1885 is critical to the development of classical American philosophy. It precedes it and sets its direction. The book accomplishes its goal of giving the reader a sense of the period by arranging the works in a very interesting way. The readings and introduction are very readable and would be helpful to both graduate and undergraduate students as well as general readers interested in American Thought." — James M. McLachlan, Western Carolina University

Real Knockouts - Martha McCaughey 1997-07

Unprecedented numbers of American women are today learning how to knock out, maim, even kill men who assault them. From behind the scenes of gun ranges, martial arts dojos, fitness centers offering "Cardio Combat," and in padded attacker courses like "Model Mugging," Real Knockouts demonstrates how self-defense trains women out of the femininity that makes them easy targets for men's abuse. And yet much feminist thought, like the broader American culture, seems deeply ambivalent about women's embrace of violence, even in self-defense.

Investigating the connection between feminist theory and a woman's balled fist, McCaughey found self-defense culture to embody, literally, a new kind of feminism, one that will change forever the way we think of gender politics, the female body, and feminism itself.

A Public God - Neil Ormerod
2015

Natural theology is a philosophical site that is hotly debated and controversial. It is claimed by Roman Catholics, Protestants, and Evangelicals as a crucial vantage point for the intersection of theology, philosophy, science, and politics. It is strongly contested by some theologians, such as those influenced by Barth, as well as some philosophers and scientists. This volume steers through these troubled waters, arguing for reclamation of a natural theology that withstands the challenges from within and without the Christian tradition and accrues to a vital public and political witness.

Real - Self Expression Exploring the Dimensionalities of Who We Are From the Authors of Letting Go and Taking the Chance to be Real Sherron Lewis 2020-11-11

This book is about exploring the dimensionalities of who we are as we strive to communicate the deeper aspects of our being. Giving creative voice to "real-self expression" requires our establishing true communication with a deeper consciousness within us — a turning inward to capture and seize the thoughts, experiences, emotions, and myriad of memories that reside inside our mind — to push beyond the limitation of words and to stand in the spaces between what may seem to be inharmonious aspects of our self to find synchrony. This is the gift of our psychic symphony. The only question is one of what we will compose. Sherron Lewis and Shelley Stokes The authors, Shelley Stokes, Ph.D. and Sherron Lewis, LMFT, have been pursuing a conceptual, clinical and experiential exploration of the many dimensions and phenomena contained in the human struggles inherent in knowing, being, expressing and living as an expression of SELF that is more REAL and less a manifestation of distorting, inhibiting, fear inducing and submissiveness to accommodate to the perceived demands and expectations of external forces and emotionally important relationships. In this, their latest effort in this endeavor, they continue to employ a methodology that includes clinical theoretical formulations, neuropsychological findings, poetic and philosophical offerings, spiritual references, clinical therapeutic vignettes, and personal reflections. Throughout their writings, Lewis and Stokes, creatively share aspects of their own personal explorations and reflections on their journeys to greater self-authenticity and freedom of expressions of the self. In fact, it is through their use of personal self-disclosures, that they offer the reader a form of interpersonal experiential intimacy in teaching and encouraging the same in the reader's journey of self-discovering and expression, thus making accessible to the reader, especially the non-clinical professionals, a greater access to integrated knowing through concepts, emotions, reflections and experiences. Through this unique approach, the authors engage in a powerful means of communication by inviting the reader to personally engage in the demanding, complex, exciting, energizing and releasing effort to get beyond habitual ways of being in finding, creating and expressing that which has been waiting to be brought to greater fruition in REAL-SELF expression.
